VALUES

What are Values?

Values Hierarchy

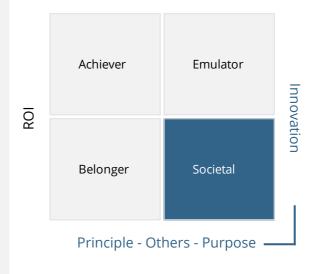

1) Respect	4) Growth
2) Effectiveness	5) Challenge
3) Satisfaction	6) Impact
	7) Achievement

Values determine what about the self is the meaningful core that governs people's desires and the expression of these desires. Motives are the psychological drivers of behavior. Motives are the only true predictors of behavior. It's one's values which dictate his or her motivations. There are four Value Sets.

Societal

Societals tend to be well educated and actively seek out information. They are reflective, creative, purpose-driven and relentless in pursuing and sharing ideals. They are change leaders and are receptive to new ideas and technologies. Societals are among the established and emerging leaders in business, yet they continue to seek challenges. They are mature, satisfied and reflective people who value simplicity, knowledge, justice and responsibility.

It is not unusual to see a Societal acting as an advocate for those they believe need protection, counsel or direction. You are honourable, dependable and consistent in word and deed; your reputation and credibility is meticulously safeguarded.

Like many Societals, you are a knowledgeable and dedicated advisor and mentor who enjoys being involved in policy, procedures and politics. Highly principled, purpose-driven, a history of achievement and an insatiable desire to make a difference describes you.

STAGES OF GROWTH

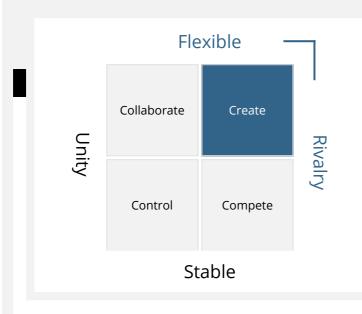

Your Stages of Growth: Stage 2: Partner / Stage 3: Plug & Play

Stages of Growth are determined by a company's managerial style, organizational structure, formal systems, major strategic goals and founder/owner involvement. As a business grows the systems, procedures and products will adapt to support an evolving business model, the needs of the employees and to satisfy end-user demands. Within each phase of business the skills of employees need to complement owner's plans and market expansion strategies. There are 5 Stages of Growth.

What is a Business Culture?

Culture is a complex issue that essentially includes all of a group's shared values, attitudes, beliefs, and behaviors. Culture is broad – encompassing all aspects of a group's internal and external relationships – and culture is deep in that it guides individual actions even to the extent that members are not aware they are influenced by it. There are four Cultural Types.
